19. Please identify each instance in which you have testified orally or in writing before Congress in a governmental or non-governmental capacity and specify the date and subject matter of each testimony.

I have not testified orally or in writing before Congress. However, I briefed members of Congress on multiple occasions, including:

20. Given the current mission, major programs, and major operational objectives of the Coast Guard, what in your background or employment experience do you believe affirmatively qualifies you for appointment to the position for which you have been nominated, and why do you wish to serve in that position?

I believe I am affirmatively qualified for appointment to a position of importance and responsibility in the grade of Vice Admiral (O-9) per 14 U.S.C. § 305 based on a strong record of leading Coast Guard women and men to conduct operations across the broad spectrum of Service missions, including during complex contingencies, and experience leading mission support activities at the enterprise level. I have also demonstrated successful senior leadership and ability to work with joint and interagency partners from Federal, state, and local governments, the private sector, and with allies and other foreign governments. I have specialized competence through education, training, and experience in the fields of operations, mission support, law, and national security.

I wish to serve in the position of a position of importance and responsibility in the grade of Vice Admiral (O-9) per 14 U.S.C. § 305 because I believe that I can best continue to serve the Coast Guard and our people, the Department of Homeland Security, the joint force, and the nation in a position of senior executive leadership. I believe that as an inspiring, positive leader, I am well prepared to lead Coast Guard men and women to safely and effectively conduct operations under complex, dynamic conditions and challenges, including evolving threats, significant fiscal constraints, and public scrutiny of government functions. I also believe that as a senior U.S. government attorney and military officer, I have a thorough understanding of my obligations and duty regarding the constitutional authority, roles, and responsibilities of Congress, the Executive, and the Judiciary, and the critical importance of civilian control of the military to the nation.

21. What do you believe are your responsibilities, if confirmed, to ensure that the Coast Guard has proper management and accounting controls, and what experience do you have in managing a large organization?

If confirmed, I will ensure the Coast Guard has proper management and accounting controls by personally understanding, directing, and ensuring compliance with the full scope of statutory, regulatory and policy requirements governing management of public property and funds and performance of government activities. I will ensure that the Coast Guard, both within my assigned area of responsibility and across the organization, maintains policies and systems for management and accounting controls, trains personnel in their use and application, executes functions in accordance with those controls, and reports failures or violations of controls to appropriate enforcement and oversight authorities.

I have experience in successfully managing large organizations. From 2020 to present, I have provided oversight of program management and advised the Deputy Commandant for Mission Support regarding: engineering and logistics; Command, Control, Communications, Computers, and Information Technology (C4IT); acquisitions; delivery of operational logistics at the field level; and, personnel security and physical security policy and management. This involved advising on leading over 9,000 personnel and the execution of over $1.7B in maintenance funding and $2.2B in procurement, construction, and improvement funding. In my current role, I have also served as a member of the Deputies Council, providing advice to the Commandant, Vice Commandant, and other members of the Leadership Council on a broad range of issues impacting the Coast Guard, including enterprise planning, programming, budgeting, and execution, policy, and enterprise risk management. From 2018-2020, as Commander, Fourteenth Coast Guard District, I directed Coast Guard operations throughout Oceania in the Pacific, including Hawai'i, Guam, the Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands, American Samoa, and activities in Japan and Singapore. My duties included leadership of over 1,300 personnel and management of $24M in operating funds. From 2016-2018, I commanded U.S. Coast Guard Cyber Command where I directed the operation and defense of Coast Guard networks and computer systems and response to cyber incidents involving the U.S. marine transportation system. During that same period, I simultaneously served as the Assistant Commandant for C4IT (CG-6), responsible for policy, management, and direction of C4IT business and infrastructure assets, including information management. My concurrent duties in both of those positions included leading over 900 people and management of over $500M in operating and maintenance funding. While serving as the Director of Exercises and Training (J7) at U.S. Cyber Command, I led the joint training of the Department of Defense (DoD) Cyber Mission Force and delivery of trained and ready cyberspace forces for DoD. While serving as Executive Assistant to the Commandant from 2011-2014, I gained executive-level knowledge and experience directly advising the Commandant of the Coast Guard on strategic issues of service-wide impact, including budget, policy, strategy, and operations. I have prior experience within U.S. Coast Guard Atlantic Area, including as Commander, Maritime Intelligence Fusion Center Atlantic from 2008-2011, Chief of Atlantic Area Operational Law from 2004-2007, and service aboard two Coast Guard cutters in the Seventh and Fifth Coast Guard Districts.

22. What do you believe to be the top three challenges facing the Coast Guard, and why?

1. How does the Coast Guard successfully recruit, develop, lead, and retain the best people who fully reflect the rich diversity of our United States when there are increasing demands and competition with other government agencies and the private sector for specialized talent? People remain our greatest resource. The Coast Guard workforce requires more specialty knowledge and technical proficiency than ever before, meaning increased time and investment to provide employees with technical training and competence in skills that are increasingly perishable and in high demand by the private sector and other government agencies. The Service must improve its ability to attract, develop, and retain the best people into a strong, diverse, and inclusive workforce. This requires re-examining current personnel management, training, and assignment policies and systems, then adapting them to meet current and future requirements. Further, Coast Guard employees deserve, and the public expects, inspiring and positive leadership at every level. The Coast Guard must continue to improve leadership training and performance to ensure it meets the highest standards and traditions of the Service and the expectations of our employees, the President, and Congress.

2. How does the Coast Guard effectively combat and eliminate sexual assault from within its ranks to restore the confidence of the public we serve? Sexual assault continues to plague the Coast Guard, and every day despite the implementation of new measures to attack it, there are still Coast Guard men and women who live in fear of fellow service members who are sexual predators. We have made progress, but we have more to do. The Coast Guard and other military services must continue to place highest priority on policies, leadership, and actions to prevent and respond to incidents, hold predators accountable, care for victims, and reduce and eliminate sexual predators from the military. The Service must continue to identify and implement solutions to address the problem, including effective prevention through bystander intervention, care for victims, and accountability for offenders.

3. How does the Coast Guard address the increasingly complex and converging national security challenges the U.S. faces today in the maritime environment, at a time of increased strategic competition? The marine transportation system carries an annual $5T in maritime commerce and is vital to U.S. economic prosperity, national mobility, and national security. Further, the advent of increasingly complex technology in ports and aboard ships, with systems and networked technologies at risk of cyber incidents, means the security and safety of technology and data will be an increasing Coast Guard mission focus. The ocean itself provides an essential source of food and livelihood, and is under increasing risk from illegal, unreported, and unregulated fishing and the impacts of a changing global climate. This requires that the U.S. strengthen its maritime governance, and work with allies and partner nations to improve maritime governance in the international arena. The Service must continue to mature its strategic focus and concept of operations to ensure it meets the complex mission challenges today, and is ready to meet the emerging challenges of the future.

The court dismissed the lawsuit on 12/8/2008. Other than the above matter, I have none.
