20. Given the current mission, major programs, and major operational objectives of the Coast Guard, what in your background or employment experience do you believe affirmatively qualifies you for appointment to the position for which you have been nominated, and why do you wish to serve in that position?

I am extremely honored to have this opportunity to continue serving our nation and our Coast Guard. While no singular qualification, assignment, training or educational opportunity was the catalyst for this nomination to flag rank, I do believe my professional experiences, demonstrated leadership, and ability to deliver results, both in crisis and steady state operations, throughout my career has well-prepared me to take this next step. I am ready to support our Commandant's and larger DHS and national priorities to continue advancing U.S. maritime interests, countering threats in the maritime domain, and promoting the safe and secure flow of maritime commerce that is central to sustaining our national economy and standing as a global power.

With a focus on taking initiative, being a good team player, and delivering superb mission execution across nearly 30 years of active duty service, I have consistently tried to challenge myself, and those who I have had the privilege to lead, to be better each day than we were the day before. As a leader, I consistently put service above self and the needs of others before my own, while working to increase my own leadership abilities and self-awareness to maximize my effectiveness. I have and will continue to put significant energy into preparing the next generation of Coast Guard leaders, both officers and enlisted, to achieve their professional goals and excel in their respective careers. I choose to not measure success by what I have achieved, but rather through the achievements of those who I have had the privilege to lead while consistently holding all to the highest standards of personal and professional conduct.

Across my multiple duty assignments on both coasts, I gained invaluable leadership experience directly supporting and leading various aspects of the responses to 9/11, Deepwater Horizon, and Hurricanes KATRINA, HARVEY, IRMA, MARIA, and DORIAN, Haiti earthquakes, COVID-19, and more recently, maritime migration surges in the Caribbean. Each of these responses taught me about the value and importance of interagency and international cooperation and how to work effectively at all levels to achieve the desired end state in support of our national priorities. I used each of these events to improve myself as a Coast Guard leader and officer, build my professional network, and increase the Coast Guard's capability and ability to respond to these types of crises in the future.

Throughout my career, particularly in my last three assignments, I have organized, led, and participated in multiple Congressional and staff delegation visits to various units and Coast Guard regions. If confirmed, I will continue seeking these opportunities to highlight the work of our Coast Guard and to members of Congress and provide authorizers opportunities to identify areas where they may be able to help sharpen our execution of Coast Guard missions in service to our Nation. I will also look for opportunities to showcase our newest assets and capabilities to our appropriators along with our continued recapitalization needs to ensure we are postured to be responsive to the needs of our Nation both domestically and abroad.

If confirmed, I will continue leading with a focus on delivering results that support Coast Guard and national priorities, working collaboratively with international and interagency partners, while continually looking ahead to ensure the Coast Guard is well-postured to meet future needs of our Nation. I will be a leader of character who holds myself and others accountable to the high standards of personal and professional conduct expected from our Nation's armed forces. I will continue supporting current efforts to shape our workforce and promote a culture that enables all to achieve their full potential. I am honored to be considered for flag rank, and if confirmed, grateful for the opportunity to continue to serve the Coast Guard and our Nation.

21. What do you believe are your responsibilities, if confirmed, to ensure that the Coast Guard has proper management and accounting controls, and what experience do you have in managing a large organization?

If confirmed, my responsibility will be to remain an exceptional steward of the Coast Guard's human capital, financial, and physical resources. In both my roles as the Chief of Operational Forces for the Atlantic region and most recently, as the Chief of Staff for the Seventh Coast Guard District in Miami, I managed multi-million dollar budgets, a significant number of capital assets, several thousand Coast Guard personnel, and oversaw operations across expansive geographic areas. These recent experiences, along with many others throughout my career, will help guide my decision-making, enable me to make the tough resource and trade-off decisions, when necessary, and be the best steward possible of the resources appropriated by Congress.

The Coast Guard has made tremendous progress in recent years to secure clean financial audits, improve internal controls, and be a better steward our resources. This will continue to improve with the modernization of our financial systems and internal control processes. While some budget growth will be needed to support and sustain service readiness, I do recognize that continuous improvement is always needed to promote efficiency, reduce waste where possible, and deliver the maximum return on each dollar invested in the U.S. Coast Guard.

22. What do you believe to be the top three challenges facing the Coast Guard, and why?

Sustaining Coast Guard Readiness – Readiness requires that the Coast Guard has the personnel, materiel, and governance necessary to meet the needs of our Nation. First, we must have the personnel and right force construct to be ready to meet Coast Guard mission demands. Our Commandant's current initiatives to better shape and manage our workforce is taking us in the right direction to ensure our readiness on the personnel front as we compete for talent and face increasing recruitment and retention challenges. Our ability to recruit, retain, and train talented individuals, both officer and enlisted, will be at the core of our readiness to serve the nation. Ensuring our materiel readiness means that we have the right assets, with the right capabilities and sustainment funding to ensure these assets are ready to meet the needs of our nation, both domestically and abroad. This requires the necessary levels of fiscal support and incremental budget growth to support these assets through the designated service life and continued support for our shipbuilding, infrastructure, aviation, and cyber needs. Finally, we need to have the right authorities and governance to meet emerging mission demands in areas such as cyberspace and illegal high seas fishing (IUU-F) to ensure we can protect our national interests and sustain good governance in the maritime domain. Collectively, ensuring Coast Guard readiness across these three fronts ensure we remain ready to meet global Coast Guard mission demand.

Meeting Global Coast Guard Mission Demand – Both domestically and abroad, there is increasing demand for U.S. Coast Guard capabilities. Emerging Arctic, cyber, and IUU-F mission demands, supporting offshore wind energy and the space industries, all while continuing efforts to facilitate safe and secure maritime commerce in our nation’s ports and waterways and counter threats in the maritime domain will challenge our abilities. While our new assets provide us with the capability to be a more global Coast Guard, we must prioritize these demands and apply our limited resources where we can deliver maximum results while being careful to not overextend ourselves and risk not being responsive to national contingencies or domestic mission demands. We will not be able to do this alone but rather much continue to seek opportunities to leverage interagency and international partnerships to improve service delivery and maximize the effects delivered to advance our U.S. maritime interests around the globe.

Advancing U.S. Maritime Interests – We are in an era of increasing strategic competition. The U.S. Coast Guard is a unique instrument of national seapower, often operating below that level of armed conflict, that can be used to be advance our national interests. We face a multi-polar world where sustaining and expanding U.S. influence is a strategic imperative to counter other malign actors seeking to expand their influence in many regions around the globe. With our expansive authorities and capabilities, many other countries seek to model their own coast guards and navies after the U.S. Coast Guard. We must continue to find ways to leverage the Coast Guard to advance U.S. national interests and strategic priorities and retain our global standing as an international partner of choice.

If yes:
  - a. Provide the name of agency, association, committee, or group;
  - b. Provide the date the citation, disciplinary action, complaint, or personnel action was issued or initiated;
  - c. Describe the citation, disciplinary action, complaint, or personnel action;

No.

3. Have you or any business or nonprofit of which you are or were an officer ever been involved as a party in an administrative agency proceeding, criminal proceeding, or civil litigation? If so, please explain.

Yes. My wife and I were a subject of a complaint filed in Honolulu civil court regarding a billing dispute with my daughter's private school (Island Pacific Academy) after we moved her to a different school on the island. The matter was taken to arbitration and successfully resolved.

4. Have you ever been convicted (including pleas of guilty or nolo contendere) of any criminal violation other than a minor traffic offense? If so, please explain.

No.

disability, genetic information, marital status, parental status, political affiliation, engagement in a protected Equal Employment Opportunity/Equal Opportunity (EEO/EO) activity, whistleblower activity, or any other basis? If so, please explain.

Yes, a crew member in my command (USCGC WALNUT) filed a 2008 military equal opportunity (MEO) complaint alleging that his failure to qualify as an underway deck watch officer was based on race. This complaint was investigated and not substantiated. A similar unsuccessful complaint was investigated by my superior commander earlier in 2008. The member was involuntarily separated in 2015, six years after he departed WALNUT, after a three-board process found that his performance and conduct on WALNUT and at three subsequent units was unacceptable. In 2021, the member sued the Coast Guard alleging his discharge was unjust. I am not a party. That case pends.

6. If you have ever served as a general court-martial convening authority involving sexual misconduct or assault, have you ever disapproved the findings of a court-martial related to the offense(s) or reduced the sentence adjudged by a court-martial, other than in connection with a pre-trial agreement?
